Abstract for

20th WADP congress / XXXIII International Symposium of the German Academy for Psychoanalysis (DAP) e.V., 16.04.2024 to 20.04.2024, Marrakech, Morocco "Social Challenges - Shared Responsibility in Psychiatry and Psychotherapy"

Title / Position: Prof. Dr. Country: Germany Presentation title: Derrida and the Freudian Death Drive	Presentation ⊠	Workshop □
Title / Position: Prof. Dr. Country: Germany Presentation title: Derrida and the Freudian Death Drive Abstract text up to 15 lines in English: Jacques Derrida's (1930-2014) reflections on "cruelty" will be placed in this paper in rela-tion to his psychoanalytic reflections. From this arises the question of whether Derrida's psychoanalytic reflections adequately grasp and appreciate Freudian death drive meta-psychology as an understanding of "evil" and "cruelty." Thus, Derrida responds and affirms in his writing "States of the Soul of Psychoanalysis" that the "death drive" and its derivatives such as "cruelty" are indissolubly linked to life in Freud (1856-1939); however, the aggressive/cruel drives can be redirected or sublimated. Derrida's preliminary hypothesis is thus: Freud's so-called "traces" enable the discussion of the "death drive theory" in Derrida himself, and specifically with the phenomenological methods of "deconstruction" and "différance." Derrida's solution to this is to confront "evil"	Male ⊠ / Female [□ / Diverse □
Presentation title: Derrida and the Freudian Death Drive Abstract text up to 15 lines in English: Jacques Derrida's (1930-2014) reflections on "cruelty" will be placed in this paper in rela-tion to his psychoanalytic reflections. From this arises the question of whether Derrida's psychoanalytic reflections adequately grasp and appreciate Freudian death drive meta-psychology as an understanding of "evil" and "cruelty." Thus, Derrida responds and affirms in his writing "States of the Soul of Psychoanalysis" that the "death drive" and its derivatives such as "cruelty" are indissolubly linked to life in Freud (1856-1939); however, the aggressive/cruel drives can be redirected or sublimated. Derrida's preliminary hypothesis is thus: Freud's so-called "traces" enable the discussion of the "death drive theory" in Derrida himself, and specifically with the phenomenological methods of "deconstruction" and "différance." Derrida's solution to this is to confront "evil"	Name: Pedrosa Gil	First Name: Francisco
Presentation title: Derrida and the Freudian Death Drive Abstract text up to 15 lines in English: Jacques Derrida's (1930-2014) reflections on "cruelty" will be placed in this paper in rela-tion to his psychoanalytic reflections. From this arises the question of whether Derrida's psychoanalytic reflections adequately grasp and appreciate Freudian death drive meta-psychology as an understanding of "evil" and "cruelty." Thus, Derrida responds and affirms in his writing "States of the Soul of Psychoanalysis" that the "death drive" and its derivatives such as "cruelty" are indissolubly linked to life in Freud (1856-1939); however, the aggressive/cruel drives can be redirected or sublimated. Derrida's preliminary hypothesis is thus: Freud's so-called "traces" enable the discussion of the "death drive theory" in Derrida himself, and specifically with the phenomenological methods of "deconstruction" and "différance." Derrida's solution to this is to confront "evil"	Title / Position:	Prof. Dr.
Abstract text up to 15 lines in English: Jacques Derrida's (1930-2014) reflections on "cruelty" will be placed in this paper in rela-tion to his psychoanalytic reflections. From this arises the question of whether Derrida's psychoanalytic reflections adequately grasp and appreciate Freudian death drive meta-psychology as an understanding of "evil" and "cruelty." Thus, Derrida responds and affirms in his writing "States of the Soul of Psychoanalysis" that the "death drive" and its derivatives such as "cruelty" are indissolubly linked to life in Freud (1856-1939); however, the aggressive/cruel drives can be redirected or sublimated. Derrida's preliminary hypothesis is thus: Freud's so-called "traces" enable the discussion of the "death drive theory" in Derrida himself, and specifically with the phenomenological methods of "deconstruction" and "différance." Derrida's solution to this is to confront "evil"	Country:	Germany to his psychoanalytic reflections. From this arises the question of whether Derrida's psychoanalytic reflections adequately grasp and appreciate Freudian death drive metapsychology as an understanding of "evil" and "cruelty." Thus, Derrida responds and affirms in his writing "States of the Soul of Psychoanalysis" that the "death drive" and its derivatives such as "cruelty" are indissolubly linked to life in Freud (1856-1939); however, the aggressive/cruel drives can be redirected or sublimated. Derrida's preliminary hypothesis is thus: Freud's so-called "traces" enable the discussion of the "death drive theory" in Derrida himself, and specifically with the phenomenological methods of "deconstruction" and "différance." Derrida's solution to this is to confront "evil"	Presentation title: Derrida and the Freudian Death Drive Abstract text up to 15 lines in English:
	to his psychoanalytic psychoanalytic reflect psychology as an uncomposite psychology as an uncomposite "death drive" and (1856-1939); howeved Derrida's preliminary the "death drive theomethods of "deconstitution"	reflections. From this arises the question of whether Derrida's ctions adequately grasp and appreciate Freudian death drive metaderstanding of "evil" and "cruelty." ds and affirms in his writing "States of the Soul of Psychoanalysis" that dits derivatives such as "cruelty" are indissolubly linked to life in Freuder, the aggressive/cruel drives can be redirected or sublimated. Thypothesis is thus: Freud's so-called "traces" enable the discussion of cry" in Derrida himself, and specifically with the phenomenological cruction" and "différance." Derrida's solution to this is to confront "evil"	