Abstract

Shared Social Responsibility, as main theme of the WADP 2024 World Congress, will be examined concerning its relationship to the Covid-19 pandemic, and its potential to promote mental health and general well-being. These issues will be examined, first, through brief responses from eminent mental health scholars and clinicians attending the 2024 WADP World Congress to the following questions:

1. What has the 19-Covid pandemic revealed concerning shared social responsibility?
2. How Shared Social Responsibility could effectively promote Mental Health?
3. How Shared Social Responsibility could effectively promote General Well-Being?

Based on the emerging patterns and a complementary review of the literature on the topic of the Panel a paper will be prepared with interested panelists to be submitted to the Dynamic Psychiatry Journal.
